

Title of lecture: MPhil – Music Skills

Response from: Benjamin Walton (6 November 2015)

I am glad to see that in general the sessions for this course have been well received. In terms of specific comments and criticisms relevant to my own sessions or to how the course could be altered in future, I think the idea of having a session on dealing with historical documents is an excellent one, and agree that it would also be useful to consider if there are topics that could be more closely tailored to the needs of composers.
